Nahanni Park Expansion

Through a memorandum of understanding, Dehcho First Nations and Parks Canada have agreed to work together to expand Nahanni National Park Reserve within the Greater Nahanni Ecosystem. They are currently undertaking numerous feasibility studies, including a mineral and energy resource assessment. Consultation with the public is part of the process. When these studies conclude, an agreement to expand the boundaries for the national park reserve will be negotiated. The area of interest for park expansion is the Greater Nahanni Ecosystem, which includes the entire South Nahanni River watershed and the North Karst. The Dehcho Land Use Plan will allow for that process to determine the expanded boundaries for the national park reserve within the GNE.
